About APA

The Asia Pacific Alliance for Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights (APA) brings together nongovernmental organisations, donors and other stakeholders with common goals to build a strong network to ensure everyone's right to health is fully achieved through the promotion and inclusion of sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) in development agendas.

APA is a membership-based alliance with members primarily in the five donor countries of Asia and the Pacific: Australia, Japan, Republic of Korea, New Zealand and Thailand.

APA Objectives

- Increase and diversify funding for SRHR in the region
- Improve international assistance policies and priorities on SRHR
- Strengthen voices on SRHR from Asia and the Pacific and regionally-determined priorities in global arenas

The 10th APA Conference and Meetings is made possible by the generous support of the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation and the David and Lucile Packard Foundation.

Welcome Message

Dear partners

Welcome to the 10th Conference and Meetings of the Asia Pacific Alliance (APA) in Penang, Malaysia. We are proud to bring together a richly diverse group of representatives from NGOs, youth organizations, governments, donor and multilateral agencies active in Asia and the Pacific to discuss this year's theme Investing in Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights for the MDGs: Priorities leading up to 2015 and beyond. Through plenary, workshops and discussions, we are looking forward to hear your valuable contributions to ensure everyone's right to health is fully achieved.

This year marks the year of the adoption of the United Nations (UN) Millennium Development Goals (MDGs). While international leaders have committed to end poverty, many countries in the Asia and the Pacific are lagging far behind in work to achieve the MDGs. To accelerate progress on the MDGs, providing access to family planning and sexual and reproductive health services is one of the most effective development interventions. The UN High-level Plenary Meeting on the Millennium Development Goals (MDG Summit) this year provided an opportunity to address gaps and to scale up investments in reproductive health to achieve the MDGs in the remaining five years.

Evidence based advocacy for political commitment and action for sexual and reproductive health in the MDG framework remains crucial. On the first day of the Conference you are invited to showcase and share best-practice advocacy and programmatic interventions. We hope that it will provide you with new tools to advocate for sustained access to reproductive and sexual health in order to achieve the MDGs.

On the second day of the Conference, the program focuses on how to use this evidence and translate it to funding and resource mobilization. Through plenary and workshops, we will examine ways to enhance donor support and resources for sexual and reproductive health, particularly through better understanding of funding sources and the current aid environment.

The year 2010 also marks the beginning of the remaining five years to achieve the MDGs. We are encouraged to discuss further strategies for follow up and use this as valuable input for the APA Members' Meeting. With only five years left to achieve the MDGs, time is fast running out. We hope to increase concerted efforts to move forward beyond 2015.

This week will be another important step for APA to be a more effective alliance and to strengthen the collective impact of our members' initiatives and other partners in Asia and the Pacific. Together, let us ensure that progress towards sexual and reproductive health and rights are taken so that all people can enjoy a quality and healthy life.

We wish you a productive conference and we are looking forward to working with you the coming days.

Sumie Ishii
APA Chairperson

Rose Koenders
APA Executive Director

OBJECTIVES

Through interactive discussions, workshops and plenaries, the Conference and Meetings will:

- Inform participants on the outcomes of the United Nations Summit on the Millennium Development Goals in September 2010 and discuss further strategies for follow up
- Showcase best-practice advocacy and programmatic interventions to achieve the MDGs, especially MDG 5b, universal access to reproductive health
- Examine ways to enhance donor support / resources for sexual and reproductive health, particularly through better understanding of funding sources and the current aid environment
- Increase advocacy potential of civil society representatives to promote meaningful participation in SRHR decision-making
- Develop key strategic recommendations for the APA plan 2011 and 2012
